Curried Squash Soup with Frizzled Leeks

For soup: white and pale green parts of 1 lb. leeks (about 4 medium), chopped
1 medium onion chopped
2 T unsalted butter
1-1/2 teasp. curry powder
3-1/2 lbs. butternut squash, peeled, seeded, and cut into 1-inch pieces (about 8 C)
1 medium carrot chopped
4 C chicken broth
4 C water

For frizzled leeks: white and pale green parts of 1/2 lb. leeks (about 2 medium), cut cross-wise into 2-in. pieces vegetable oil for deep-frying

Make soup: Wash leeks in large bowl of water and drain in a colander. In a heavy kettle, cook onion in butter over moderately low heat, stirring until soft. Add leeks and salt to taste and cook, stirring, until soft. Add curry powder and cook, stirring, 1 minute. Add remaining soup ingredients and simmer, covered, 30 minutes, or until vegetables are soft.

Cool soup slightly and in a blender or food processor purée in batches, transferring as puréed to a bowl. Season soup with salt and pepper.

Make frizzled leeks: Cut leeks lengthwise into thin strips. Wash leeks in water and drain in a colander. Dry leeks very well between layers of paper towels.

In a saucepan at least 3-1/2 in. deep heat 1 inch oil to 375°F on a deep-fat thermometer. Working in very small batches fry leeks (oil will bubble up quite high) until golden, about 10 to 15 seconds, transferring with a slotted spoon to paper towels to drain. Season frizzled leeks with salt. Leeks may be fried 1 day ahead and kept in an airtight container at room temperature. Serve soup topped with frizzled leeks.
